DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification is nonenabling with respect to the method steps of claims 1-18. Specifically, the specification is nonenabling with respect to the various modulating steps recited in the claims; the optical frequency division multiplexing ; wavelength division multiplexing; upconverting and down converting; the addressing of a receiver; the adding and dropping of a channel. Furthermore, what is disclosed in the specification appears to be questionable since it doesn't conform with the known or standard optical frequency division multiplexing or optical subcarrier multiplexing. Thus, claims 1-18 are rejected.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-18 do not clearly define and point out the method steps of the claimed invention. Moreover, the claims lack clarity and are confusing. Therefore, claims 1-18 are rejected.

Conclusion

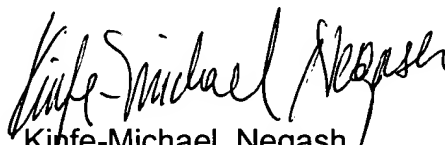

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The art of record are cited for their teachings of optical subcarrier multiplexing or optical frequency division multiplexing. The Darcie patent is cited for its teachings of an optical mixer(i.e. upconverter/downconverter). Alexander et al., teaches a WDM communication system that uses optical remodulators.
